Ike To Seek $4 Billion Foreign Aid Gives Different Version
On Seizure Of AmericanIndicates No
Relaxation
Of Tensions

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has decided to ask Congress for a new foreign aid appropriation of slightly more than four billion dollars, including a substantial increase in funds for military assistance.

Administration officials reported Sunday the President's decision basically was made last Thursday.

It represents a victory for advocates of a continued high level of foreign aid over those in the administration who have been more concerned with cutting costs in an effort to approach a balanced budget.

Expense Cutters Lose

In essence it means a triumph for the State and Defense departments' foreign aid planners in their struggle with the expense trimmers of the Budget Bureau and the Treasury Department.

The decision also appears to reflect a conviction on Eisenhower's part that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's campaign for "peaceful coexistence" and Eisenhower's own drive to ease East-West tension does not warrant the slightest relaxation of effort by the United States, its allies and the other free nations it helps.

The President's action clears his desk of a pressing and important issue that had to be resolved before he leaves Thursday on his good-will trip abroad.

Also before he leaves Eisenhower may dispose of another but not so pressing foreign aid matter. This would be to release close to 60 million dollars in U.S. arms aid for Latin-American nations.

No Question On Trip

Eisenhower's decision on the new foreign aid appropriation means that in the countries he visits next month which rely on substantial U. S. help for their economic growth, the President's commitment to a sustained aid program will not be in question.

The appropriation schedule now being developed is for presentation to Congress early in the 1960 session. The aid total, officials indicated, is to be about $4,100,000,000, divided almost evenly between economic and military assistance.

At the last session of Congress the Eisenhower administration requested a military aid appropriation of $1,600,000,000. Congress voted $1,300,000,000. Thus the new total represents a considerable increase as far as the administration's request goes.

Last session, the President asked Congress for $3,900,000,000 in new funds for economic aid. Congress cut this by 700 million dollars.

Eisenhower's expected release of arms aid funds for Latin-American countries will be based on his finding that such assistance is important to Western Hemisphere defense.

Fires Claim
23 Lives;
16 Children

FIRE across the nation took a high toll in lives over the weekend.

By Sunday night the list of dead had grown to 23, 16 of them children.

A father and his two children were killed when flames destroyed their home in Groveland, Fla., Sunday. They were Oscar Ward, 30, his daughter Lola Mae, 3, and son, V. Oddis, 2.

Earlier, a fire in a building near the downtown section of Atlanta, Ga., killed Dolores Knakos, 34, and Tommy Stephens Jr., 28.

At Perdido, Ala., a 6-month-old girl was burned to death when her mother, Mrs. James T. Luker, stumbled and fell into an open fireplace.

Fire Perish

At Bristol, R. I., Barnes Newberry Jr., 38, and his four children perished Sunday when fire swept their 20-room home overlooking Narragansett Bay.

He was an insurance executive and dealt in real estate.

Panama Rounds Up Agitators
After Stoning Of U.S. Soldiers

PANAMA (AP)—Panama police rounded up all known anti-U.S. agitators Sunday after a night of riot, pillage and stoning of American soldiers standing guard at the Panama Canal Zone.

A mob of about 300, splitting away from an orderly Independence Day rally, surged on the American-leased canal zone and battled Panamanian National Guardsmen and U.S. soldiers. A dozen U.S. soldiers and 19 Panamanians were injured in the melee.

Panama's broad Central Avenue was a wilderness of shattered glass Sunday morning. Turned back from the zone, the mob went on a looting spree, smashing in store windows.

Authoritative sources said Panama police in their roundup of agitators had jailed 30 to 40 persons.

Nationalists Blamed

The Panama press blamed the violence on 150 Panamanian nationalists who drove here from western Panama in a "motorcade of sovereignty" to support this country's demands for sovereignty over the canal zone.

Maj. Gen. William E. Potter, governor of the zone, praised Panama's National Guard for acting "in the highest traditions of their service" in checking the mob.

U.S. Ambassador Julian F. Harrington also sent a letter of praise to Col. Bolivar Vallarino, commander of the guard. The United States had criticized the guard for failing to control mobs in rioting Nov. 3 in which 80 persons were injured.

U.S. authorities indicated that as a result of Panama's help in controlling the disorders, negotiations may open earlier than expected on Panama complaints regarding the canal zone. Panama wants its flag to fly over the zone and wants an end to what it calls discrimination against its citizens in jobs and business opportunities in the zone.

There were indications that leftists had taken advantage of Panamanian resentment and the big rally celebrating the 138th anniversary of this country's independence from Spain. One of the mob leaders was described as a university student believed to be a Communist. In the mob were members of the "Committee of the Defense of the Cuban Revolution."

Effigies Burned

Before being turned back into the city, the mob burned two effigies of Uncle Sam in front of U.S. troops guarding the entrance to the zone. The mob carried placards demanding "gringo go home" and the phrase was shouted by demonstrators at the zone boundary.

Traffic Toll
More Than Doubles Rate

Traffic	400
Fires	69
Miscellaneous	117
Total	586

By The Associated Press

Traffic deaths mounted rapidly Sunday night as homebound motorists filled highways in the waning hours of the four-day Thanksgiving Day weekend.

The toll grew at the rate of nine deaths an hour—more than double what it averaged from 6 p.m. Wednesday, when the holiday period began, to midday Saturday.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike, a prime east-west highway through the East, was jammed with what state police termed some of the worst traffic tieups in the history of the big toll road. Vehicles moved bumper-to-bumper at a crawl.

Accidents which took three and four lives at a time accounted for high traffic death rates in widely scattered areas. Fires, too, claimed a mauling toll.

Four persons died near Luther, La., when their car spun off a highway after striking an unoccupied auto and plunged into a canal.

Three Drake University students returning to school after the holiday at home died in a collision of their car and a truck near Holstein, in northwestern Iowa.

Three Pennsylvania youths died when their car smashed a bridge abutment near Bradford, Pa.

Wintery weather was a highway hazard in much of the Northeast. Snow was scattered from the Great Lakes into the Appalachians and northeastward into Maine.

Worst of the fire tragedies occurred at Merrill, Wis., and Bristol, R. I. Five persons died in each blaze.

For comparative purposes, the Associated Press surveyed a recent nonholiday weekend for an identical 102 hours. That survey showed 433 traffic deaths, 49 in fires and 100 miscellaneous accidents.

Although the National Safety Council does not issue a forecast for Thanksgiving weekend for fatalities, it estimated that traffic fatalities for a four-day nonholiday weekend at this time of year would total 470.

State Turnpike
Traffic In Jam

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP)—Homebound holiday travelers using the Pennsylvania Turnpike ran into some of the worst traffic jams in the history of the toll road Sunday night. Vehicles—bumper-to-bumper—moved at snail pace.

State police said traffic was stalled as much as 10 miles on the western entrance of Laurel Tunnel, about seven miles west of Somerset.

Westbound traffic was backed up as much as 10 miles at the eastern end of Allegheny Tunnel, 12 miles east of Somerset.

Son Of Iranian Diplomat Slaps Girl Friend
But Escapes Punishment Due To Immunity

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 17-year-old son of an Iranian diplomat ended his romance with a high school girl Saturday night with a slap and two shots from a pistol loaded with blank cartridges.

Because of the boys diplomatic immunity, there was no police action.

The boy, Farhad Adjoonani, said he lost his temper because his girl friend had been going out with other boys while he was away at college in Youngstown, Ohio. He attended the same high school as the girl.

The girl was identified as Sandra Bollek, 16, daughter of the Rev. J. Glenn Bollek, pastor of the Georgetown Lutheran Church. Detective Howard E. Campbell, of the 8th Police Precinct said the boy, son of Mahmoud Adjoonani, director of foreign exchange students at the Iranian Embassy, slapped Sandra at his home. The boy's 11-year-old sister was there but the parents were away.

Campbell said Sandra reported the boy then grabbed a pistol from a trunk and threatened to hurt himself. The pistol was later found to be of a type that fires only blanks.

He forced Sandra and his 11-year-old sister out of the room and slammed the door. Campbell said, Sandra said she then

Balloonists
End Flight
15 Miles Up

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—Two balloonists climbed 15 miles into the sky, spent about an hour photographing and studying the planet Venus through a telescope, then made a rough landing in a northeast Kansas pasture Sunday.

Cmdr. Malcom Ross, a Navy physicist, was shaken up in the landing and was hospitalized at Schilling Air Force Base, Salina, Kan., for the night. The other balloonist, Charles Moore, Cambridge, Mass., was not hurt.

Moore said they reached 81,000 feet—a little over 15 miles high and above 98 per cent of the earth's atmosphere, with its dust particles and other contamination. He said they stayed at that altitude about an hour and were able to focus on Venus with a 16-inch telescope for a "fair percentage" of that time.

Exciting View
"It was the most exciting view of the stars I ever had," he said.

Prof. John Strong of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, head of the project, said the data collected by the balloonists must undergo analysis at the university before any results can be announced. He said he did not know when that would be.

Ross and Moore rode aloft Saturday in a sealed gondola slung under a huge plastic balloon. The ascent was made from a site near Rapid City, S. D. The balloonists reached 81,000 feet early Sunday, but the exact time was not available.

The gondola was released from the balloon as it neared earth on the way down and floated the rest of the way under a parachute.

Dragged Up Hill
When the device touched down it was caught in gusty winds that averaged 15 to 20 miles per hour. The gondola was dragged ½ to ¾ of a mile up a hill before the chute snagged on a barbed wire fence and collapsed. Attempts to collapse it with the down-draft of helicopters had failed because of the wind.

The pasture is about 35 miles north of Manhattan, and 100 miles northwest of Kansas City. Ross and Moore were airlifted to Schilling AFB 90 miles southwest of the site.

Moore said one difficulty they encountered in focusing on Venus was greater turning action by the gondola than they had anticipated.

He said it was very cold in the gondola, and fruit they took along was frozen. They each slept a short time, he added.

Strong followed the balloon in a Navy transport plane and was at Schilling when the balloonists arrived. He is in charge of the laboratory for astrophysics and physical meteorology at Johns Hopkins.

Rags To Riches
By Pop Records
LONDON (AP)—One of Britain's best known broadcasters on Sunday backed claims that bribery and other shady practices are making fortunes for some people in the nation's booming pop record business.

Jack Payne, disc jockey, band leader and impresario, declared in an interview: "Most emphatically, bribery occurs in the pop music industry and I defy anyone to prove otherwise."

Pope's Blessings
Pope John XXIII broadcast them his blessings from far off Vatican City. Political differences were laid aside for the meeting, hailed by church leaders as the greatest demonstration of religious faith in Cuba's history.

In the blast through with Castro and his followers were many of his political foes. All joined in a mass prayer.

In his message preceding the blessing, the Pope took note of Cuba's political strife and called for friendship and mutual respect.

The pontiff said "grave events, not so far away," had brought Cubans to "the foot of the altar to strengthen you union in faith, hope and charity."

The Pope's speech, recorded in advance, made no mention of Castro's charge on the eve of the congress that his enemies might use the meeting to turn the Roman Catholic Church against his regime.

He then took the girl to the home of Paul J. May, in Chevy Chase, Md., where police were summoned, Campbell said.

Sunday, Adjoonani said: "I think I acted the same as any American boy would. I've been in this country for almost six years and I'm quite familiar with your customs."

TOKYO (AP)—Red China Sunday accused the U.S. consulate general in Bombay of kidnapping one of China's consular staff, holding him for 20 hours and forcing him to make a statement against his will.

Peiping was replying to Washington's charge that a U.S. Marine of the Bombay consulate general staff was abducted and beaten in the Chinese consulate Friday after he showed up there with the Chinese.

The Chinese was identified by Peiping as Chang Chien-yu, a member of Red China's Export-Import Corp. The U.S. Embassy said he asked for asylum in the United States, then changed his mind.

The United States filed a strong protest with India Saturday, saying the abduction of Sgt. Robert Armstrong, 34, of Los Angeles, was "a high-handed violation of the personal rights of a United States citizen."

A spokesman for the Red Chinese Foreign Ministry in a statement broadcast by Radio Peiping, said the State Department "reversed right and wrong and falsely accused other people. I am authorized to voice a serious protest against this."

Radio Peiping gave this version of the case it is expected to lay before the Indian government in New Delhi:

Chang "was kidnapped by personnel of the United States consulate general in Bombay at around 11 a.m. on Nov. 26 and was detained in the U.S. consulate general and its building at the Bombay beach for as long as 20 hours, until the following day."

"During this period, by applying serious threats and crude pressure, the personnel of the U.S. consulate general forced Chang Chien-yu to make a statement against his will."

Says Chang Escaped
"At 7 a.m. on the 27th when the American kidnapers were taking Chang Chien-yu to Bombay city by car and passing the vicinity of the Chinese consulate general, Chang Chien-yu managed to escape and ran back to the Chinese consulate general."

"Thereupon, the personnel of the U.S. consulate general escorted him immediately chased him with knife in hand."

"This was discovered by other personnel. The Chinese consulate general who, while stopping the American from carrying out his criminal intention and protecting Chang Chien-yu, informed the Indian police authorities in Bombay by telephone. Soon after, the Bombay police authorities dispatched persons who took away the American."

American Version
The U.S. version is that Armstrong was held for six hours, bound, beaten and questioned and was released only when Indian police arrived.

The U.S. Embassy's account runs like this:
Chang asked for asylum and was taken to a beach cottage at Juhu overnight Thursday because he expressed fear for his safety. Armstrong went along as his escort.

Friday morning Chang asked to be returned to the U.S. consulate general to obtain an important key he left behind. But instead the taxi in which he and Armstrong were riding stopped near the Chinese consulate general.

Chang started to leave the taxi with a tape recording of his statement asking asylum. When Armstrong tried to seize the recording Chang shouted to his countrymen inside the compound. Six of them ran out, surrounded the taxi, seized Armstrong and dragged him inside.

In Bombay, there was speculation the Red Chinese consulate used Chang as a lure. The independent Free Press Journal of Calcutta said Chang has now been whisked out of Bombay, presumably by Chinese consular officials, to an unknown destination.

Population Growth Poses Big Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—A State Department population study foresees the possibility that government and private agencies in underdeveloped countries may employ "strong programs" of birth control in future years to curb rising populations.

At present, the study reports, the gap in living standards between industrialized and newly developing nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America is actually widening instead of narrowing. It says the reason is that economic growth cannot keep pace with population growth and the increased demand for food and clothing which it creates.

The high rate of population expansion is attributed not to a higher birth rate but to rapid decline in the death rate achieved by medical science "before there has been any really substantial improvement in levels of living."

No Policy Stated

The population study was prepared last July by the State Department's Intelligence and Research Bureau.

Dealing with a problem which has long worried U.S. foreign economic officials, it makes an analysis of the facts without stating any policy proposals.

The report has gained special interest in the last few days because of the development of what may become a political argument over the promotion of birth control measures. The issue was raised last Wednesday when the Roman Catholic bishops of the United States said U.S. Catholics would not support the use of American foreign aid funds to promote artificial birth control.

A U.S. foreign aid spokesman said Saturday that no American government money is being spent in advocacy of birth control in other countries.

Economist Says Escalator Clauses Might Prove Dangerous Way To Battle Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Harvard University economist told Congress Sunday that a general use of escalator clauses to try to beat inflation would be dangerous.

Prof. Seymour E. Harris said in a report prepared for the Senate-House Economic Committee that such a plan to keep pace with rises in the cost of living would "tend to aggravate the inflation."

He noted that more than four million workers are now covered by cost-of-living escalator clauses in wage contracts. He also noted suggestions for the use of an escalator clause in benefit payments to old people and said an escalator clause has been used in the issuance of some corporate bonds.

The economist cited Social Security and welfare programs as examples of those which suffer seriously in periods of rising prices.

From 1938 to 1948, he said, the value of Social Security insurance benefits dropped about one-third in terms of stable purchasing power. Congress began to vote increased benefits in 1950, he noted, so that by 1958 the real value of the payments had increased above the prewar level.

But, Harris said, the benefits were not increased as much as the real per capita income of the whole population for the same period.

The economist suggested that Social Security revenue should be increased greatly by making the tax rates apply to $9,000 of annual wages instead of the $4,800 base established at present.

The Harvard professor said he had no fears of a "galloping inflation."

Johansson Seen Waiting For Cash

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson may have to wait for his $152,000 after all. It could be a long time, too, maybe six or seven months more.

And Cus D'Amato, whose licenses as manager and second were revoked by the New York State Athletic Commission Monday, isn't out of the picture, either. The 50-year-old manager of ex-champ Floyd Patterson said he's going to the courts in an effort to upset the commission's action.

Gen. Melvin Krulwich, chairman of the three-man commission, released the sad news for Ingemar today. In a statement, he contradicted one made Monday by Julius Helford, former chairman and now a plain member.

Johansson's money has been held in escrow by the commission to guarantee Patterson a return fight, according to the terms of the contract for the Johansson-Patterson bout last June 26 at Yankee Stadium.

NAIA Selects No. 1 Grid Team

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Lenoir Rhyne College of Hickory, N.C., is the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics' No. 1 football team of the year, the NAIA announced yesterday.

Lenoir Rhyne, which will host Southern Connecticut State Dec. 5 in the Eastern NAIA championship playoff semifinals, wound up the season with a 9-0 record.

The Bears polled 326 points, most ever given any team in the NAIA ratings.

Western Illinois, also undefeated and untied in nine games, came in second. Hillsdale, Mich. College, which will play Texas A. & I. at Kingsville, Tex., in the other end of the playoff semifinals will meet in St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 19 for the NAIA football championship.

Split-Level Penn-Can Road Opens In 1961 Between Scranton And Binghamton, N. Y.

HARRISBURG — Early in 1961 motorists will be using one of the most modern highways constructed in Pennsylvania, the Penn-Can superhighway, between Scranton and Binghamton, N. Y.

To date, nearly two million man-hours have been put into construction of the 41.46-mile portion of the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways, reports the Department of Highways.

Extending between the northern terminus of the Pennsylvania Turnpike at Chinchilla, near Scranton, and the New York State line 14 miles from Binghamton, the Penn-Can incorporates features heretofore rare in expressway construction in the Commonwealth.

Earth Moving Reduced

One is the use of a different level for each of the directional lanes. Sometimes called split-level construction, a reason for this design is to reduce the amount of earth moving required.

Split level roads also provide safety dividends. Highways hypnosis, a danger on turnpikes and long expressways, is reduced by the variation in scenery, and most important, during night driving motorists obtain relief from oncoming headlights.

Along much of the highway, northbound and southbound lanes will be on the same level, but they will be separated by an earth wall with a minimum width of 60 feet widest, constructed in Pennsylvania, and four feet wider than the divisor of the Erie Throughway, another Pennsylvania portion of the Interstate network.

2,150 Employed

About 2,150 men are at work on the 12 contract sections. Some have been working 10 and 12 hours a day and six days a week during the construction season, now nearing a close.

Construction was started on the first contract section on August 11, 1958, and on the final contract on April 1 of this year.

Because the Penn-Can will be a fully controlled access highway, there will be 10 interchanges for traffic to enter and leave the superhighway. Four will be situated in Lackawanna County and the remainder in Susquehanna County.

Motorists who drive the entire 41.6 miles will cross 71 bridges, the longest of which is 670 feet. It spans the Susquehanna River between Hallstead and Great Bend.

Joins Turnpike

At Chinchilla, drivers will be able to enter and leave the Turnpike from the superhighway.

When the Penn-Can and Harrisburg Bypass, now under construction, are completed, motorists from eastern New York State will be able to cross Pennsylvania on four-lane divided highways.

To do this, motorists will enter the Penn-Can near Binghamton (known as the Empire Stateway in New York), use the Pennsylvania Penn-Can to Chinchilla, the Turnpike to the Lehigh Valley Interchanges near Allentown, U.S. Route 22 (also a portion of the Interstate system) to Harrisburg and enter the Susquehanna Expressway (U.S. 111) there.

The latter expressway extends to Baltimore as a four-lane divided highway, except for about eight miles in Maryland where only two lanes of the expressway have been completed.

The Penn-Can sections under construction at this time will bear the designation Federal Interstate Route 81. Distinctive red, white and blue shields will contain the number.

Later, the Penn-Can will be extended southward to Stroudsburg and other points.

Six Fined On Violation Of Game Law

SIX men from both boroughs were fined late last week for possessing deer meat out of season, Game Protector John Doebling reported last night.

In hearings before Justice of the Peace John Hicklin, East Stroudsburg Star Route, John Hillman, 52 N. Second St., Stroudsburg; George Hines and Peter C. Fish, both of East Stroudsburg RD 1; John Van Why and Moses Fish, both of 52 N. Kistler St. East, Stroudsburg; and Harold W. Schring, Dingmans Ferry, were all fined $100 each plus $9 costs.

Doebling said the investigation began last Wednesday and culminated with the hearings held last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

All six pleaded guilty at their hearings.

Firearms Discharged In Borough

TWO MEN and a juvenile from the Stroudsburg area found out Saturday it didn't pay to discharge firearms within the borough limits.

Eric W. Strauch, 20, of Stroudsburg RD 1, Robert Winters, 23, of Box 9, Stroudsburg RD 1, and the juvenile were fined for discharging weapons near the end of Linden St. by Stroudsburg officials.

Strauch and Winters each paid $25 and costs to the borough, and a like amount to Game Warden John Doebling, in the latter case for discharging firearms in a safety zone, at a hearing before Justice of the Peace John Felker.

The incident occurred at 12:55 p.m. Saturday.

Disposition of the case of the juvenile will be handled by juvenile authorities.

Traffic Mishaps Kill 20 In State

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents in Pennsylvania over the long Thanksgiving holiday killed at least 20 persons. Three persons perished in a plane crash. A woman suffocated in her blazing apartment. Three deaths from miscellaneous accidents raised the total to 27.

The deaths occurred from 6 p. m. last Wednesday to midnight on Sunday.

Two-Week Deer Season Opens In Pennsylvania

THE WHITETAIL deer, given official legislative recognition as the king of Pennsylvania animals, becomes the prey of the hunter today in Monroe County and elsewhere in the Commonwealth.

The 1959 regular deer season opens at 7 a. m. and lasts until Dec. 12 Sundays excluded.

An estimated half-million hunters were expected to search for the deer, the official state animal. Only male deer are legal game.

The House of Representatives added a day to its Thanksgiving recess to permit its members to take part in the opening of the season.

Legislative Job

The State Game Commission reported field surveys indicate the herd is about the same number as last year, perhaps a little less.

But more than the usual number of bucks are sporting fine racks, it said, the result of plentiful, nourishing foods at the time the antlers began to form last winter.

Last Year's Kill

Of 46,738 deer killed in Pennsylvania last year, Monroe County accounted for 968, Pike 984, Wayne 1,128, Carbon 764 and Schuylkill 1,463. Potter County reported the biggest kill, a total of 2,007, followed by more than a thousand in each of these other counties: Center, Lycoming, Huntingdon, Clearfield, Elk, Clinton, Tioga, Warren and McKean.

Owner's Card Returned; Stolen Car Still Missing

EDWARD Rahn, whose car was stolen on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, received a sort of message of irony through the mail during the weekend. Contained in an envelope addressed to him was the owner's card for his auto.

The car, however, is still missing, Rahn said.

The vehicle was parked on Main St. in the 700 block Nov. 11, when it was taken sometime shortly after 9 a. m.

The envelope, bearing the return address of the Towanda Eagles, was addressed to Rahn, of 798 Bryant St., Stroudsburg, in a child-like scrawl, indicating the person writing it either tried to disguise his handwriting or had little formal education in penmanship. It was mailed from Towanda Nov. 25 at 6:30 p. m.

Rahn said he reported this latest incident to the Stroudsburg Police, but as of last night there were no new developments in the case.

Two Persons Hurt As Cars Collide At Tannersville

TANNERSVILLE — State Police at the Stroudsburg Sub-Station reported a two-car accident occurred here at 4:35 p. m. yesterday and total damage to the vehicles involved was estimated in excess of $1,400.

Police said Walter Hazinski Jr., 23, of 69 E. Fourth St., Clinton, N. J., was traveling south on Route 61 when his car was struck a head-on glancing blow by that driven by Anthony Joyce, 518 Penn. Ave., Mayfield, Pa.

Joyce said he was traveling north, moved out in the center lane to pass another car when a car ahead also moved out to pass. Hitting his brakes, Joyce said his car went into a skid and went into the southbound lane striking the Hazinski auto.

Mrs. Mary Hazinski, mother of Walter, was treated at Monroe County General Hospital for bruises and discharged, while Joyce was admitted with a broken hip. His condition was reported as good.

The investigation will be continued, police said.

Driver Hurt When Auto Leaves Road

MILFORD — State Police here reported a one-car accident occurred on Legislative Route 51025 at 6:30 p. m. yesterday.

Police said Armond Zaccaria, 26, of 58-46 138th St., Flushing, N. Y., was driving east on the highway when he lost control of the car and it plunged off the left side of the road into the woods.

Zaccaria was taken to St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis, N. Y., with a possible concussion and lacerations over the left eye. His condition was pronounced as satisfactory.

Damage to the car was not estimated by police.

Three Places In Bangor Burglarized

BANGOR — Police here are continuing their investigation of a series of burglaries which occurred in three Bangor homes sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning.

Police reported a total of $38.10 was taken by the thieves when they broke into the residences of Chester Kauffman, 656 Chestnut St. and Ray Weidlich, 648 Chestnut St. It was reported $30.60 was gotten from the Kauffman home, and $7.50 from the Weidlich home.

The residence of William Heard, 326 Pennsylvania Ave., was also broken into, police said, but the thieves took nothing.

Through Windows

Entrance to all three places was gained through a window in each, police said, and bureaus in all three houses were gone through in searching for money.

The odd twist to the three burglaries, police said, was that valuables other than money were not taken.

Trooper John Uditis, Eastern Sub-Station of the State Police, and Walter Heard, of the Bangor Police, are conducting the investigations.

Hunter Dies While On Bear Drive

MILFORD — A Nazareth man died during a hunting expedition near here Saturday from what is believed to have been a heart attack.

Henry G. Karamer, 58, of 316 E. Lawn St., Nazareth, was with a party "driving" for bear when the group noticed he was missing.

Returning to look for the man, his body was discovered by his nephew, Donald Happer, Easton RD 2, lying on the ground, face up.

The incident occurred to the rear of the Charles Foster property in Shohola Township, Pike County. The body was found about one and one-half miles into the woods.

Boosting Shortway

A project we recommend to local civic groups is one which has met with success in a number of communities along the route of the proposed Keystone Shortway, the 291-mile superhighway to be built between Stroudsburg and Sharon.

Hazleton, Clearfield and Brookville all have erected attractive signs at the entrance to their cities calling attention to their strategic locations with respect to the Shortway.

The Brookville sign is in the form of a large map of Pennsylvania showing the Shortway stretching from Stroudsburg in the east to Sharon in the west. Clearfield's sign, also a map, points out how the Shortway connects with other main highways in the western half of Pennsylvania.

Greater Hazleton is boosting the Shortway with a sign picturing a huge interchange describing the city as a crossroads of tomorrow. It emphasizes that the Shortway will link San Francisco and New York and also observes that the city is on the proposed Anthracite Expressway, joining the St. Lawrence Seaway with the Gulf of Mexico.

A similar sign should be placed at one or more of the entrances to the Pocono Mountains to let industrial prospects and other people know how strategically we are situated on the Shortway, which is the biggest highway project to be undertaken in Pennsylvania under the federal interstate road program.

The sign could also advise the touring public of other major highway projects planned for this area—the Penn-Can Highway, the relocation of Routes 209 and 611, the rebuilding of the highway across New Jersey from the George Washington Bridge to Delaware Water Gap, and also show our proximity to the Northeast Extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

It is a project in which the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce and its industrial committee, Pocono Mountains Industries Inc., should take a leading part.

We also suggest the Pocono Mountains Motor Club cooperate with the Chamber in putting the project across. They will be boosting the Shortway, as other communities are doing, and they will also be helping to sell strangers on the advantages of locating new industries and businesses here.

Opinions Of Other Editors

First It Was Bears, Now It's Crows

Comment at Governor Lawrence's press conference in Harrisburg on Nov. 18 produced a smart aleck remark from an unidentified reporter to the effect that the proposed Keystone Shortway will traverse only a "land of crows."

This is a snurring comment that reflects an irresponsible and prejudiced attitude.

Other questions and comment from the same source indicate the reporter was a Philadelphian who sees no reason to spend a dollar in Pennsylvania outside of that city. In this, he but rephrased the year-old remark of Philadelphia's Mayor Richard Dilworth who once said that "only bears" would use the Shortway.

Remarks like these are not in the public interest.

In the first place, they aren't accurate. Secondly, they down-grade the importance of the Keystone Shortway to a large segment of the Commonwealth. And, third, they tend to pit one section against another when it comes to planning state-wide, internal improvements.

We're sorry the governor didn't react more strongly to the reporter's comment. He knows that northern Pennsylvania contributes more than crows to the economy of the Commonwealth, and that it needs the Shortway.

Moreover, it is a matter of record that he has endorsed it. He looks upon its construction as a project of major value along the Northern Tier.

We urge him to hold fast to this sound view, notwithstanding the grasping, self-centeredness of Philadelphia.

The Pennsylvania Story

Aimless Session

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Significantly, Pennsylvania's lawmakers returning to their desks this week following Thanksgiving recess are heading down the home stretch to early adjournment—or ultimate delay until the first annual session gets under way Jan. 5.

At this point it is almost anyone's guess as to just which course the legislative branch will pursue.

In the past legislative leaders in both houses and on both sides of the aisle have made predictions as to when the legislative sojourn might be expected to terminate—but as yet no one has been able to hit the nail on the head.

For example there were those who estimated back in the Spring that the session would end by July—the past July, that is.

There were those who said that a continuation of the session until Thanksgiving was utterly ridiculous—out of the question. And there were those prognostications in between from legislative leaders.

All subsequently of course have fallen by the wayside. The point to be made is simply this:

The 1959 session has been a unique one in more ways than one, but one of the more outstanding facets has been the fact that it has been strictly a week-to-week affair from the beginning.

No one—and we mean no one—has had any idea in this session just which way the road was winding or how far ahead would be found the proverbial "dead end" sign, meaning the end of the session.

Strangely perhaps, even the record-breaking 1955-56 session which grumbled along for 17 long months actually was not one that seemingly wandered quite so aimlessly.

In that session, legislative leaders at the very beginning knew full well it would be a long one—but of course how long, they didn't know nor did they project the record-breaker that ultimately developed.

They knew it would be no pushover however and both sides were fairly well prepared accordingly. And as that session headed down the home stretch it was known quite some time beforehand that the session was galloping in that direction.

Not so the current 1959 session.

This has been an enigma from the beginning as it straggled along on its week to week basis, leaving legislative leaders on both sides of the aisle exasperated, uncertain, and to put it mildly—confused.

This crazy-quilt pattern has developed for one thing from the very political complex of the Legislature itself—with a Republican controlled Senate and a Democratic controlled House of Representatives.

Thus whether the session, which picks up its crumbs again this week, will head into the lane of quick adjournment or indefinite delay is almost impossible to determine at this point.

Before a sine die adjournment can be achieved, both houses must agree on the date. The Administration controlled House long has been ready to call it quits and Democratic Leaders there feel that the session long ago could have been wrapped up finally.

In the anti-Administration controlled Senate the story has been quite different and the urge to adjourn not so pressing. The bulk of the heavy work is not out of the way. Developments this week should be interesting.

Hub-Bub Of The Universe

George Sokolsky Says...

Ben Hur, A Classic

The two women behind me were not in a rave, as the expression goes, over the movie which they had been invited to see. One said that she had not shed a tear, which was unusual for her, as she cried even at the most corny shows. So she said, I wondered how different our tastes had become. For what these women wanted to cry about was some sexy jumble in which the gangster slaps the dame across the jaw when he catches her in her chemise with another gangster whom he shoots. This is Old Romeo and Juliet scenario all over again, except that our modern Romeo does not die of poisoned drink; Mike Hammer or Peter Gunn or some such takes care of him.

"Ben Hur" is a motion picture of the days of Jesus Christ in Jerusalem, sensitively produced, brilliantly cast, beautifully mounted. It is an artistic effort; its photography is thrilling, and its music by Miklos Rosta at times reaches symphonic quality.

I suppose I saw the play a dozen times and like every American boy, born earlier than this generation of super-sophistication, I read it before I cut my eye teeth.

The story by General Lew Wallace, written about 80 years ago, has become an American classic, and despite the habit of the current generation to wallow in the realism of Hemingway and Sartre, the return to the romantic is as welcome as it is inevitable.

The basis of the story is the occupation of Judea by the Romans, the suffering of the Jews at the hands of the Romans, the development of mass movements which differed from some current mass movements because the Jews of those days were interested neither in bread nor in liberty but in God, the appearance of Jesus Christ among them, and the ultimate conquest of Rome by Islam.

Every thrill that Wallace put into his story is in the movie. The chariot race is there. No one who read "Ben Hur" or who ever saw it on the stage, can forget the chariot race. It was the high moment in grand melodrama and so it is in this picture.

The modern technique of the big screen and living color makes the arena larger and the horses more fiery and the contest fiercer than on the stage in the old days when one stood up and shouted for victory.

The contest between Judah Ben Hur and Messala, between the power of truth and the power of arms is symbolic of the entire story and of much of human history.

It is one of the curiosities of history that although Rome was the most powerful nation on Earth, amply portrayed so in this motion picture, and Palestine was one of the poorest countries in the Fertile Crescent on the edge of the Arabian Desert, Rome was never able altogether to conquer the Jews because they possessed the will to resist.

The Romans could conquer Palestine but not the Jews; they could take the land but not the spirit of the people.

Whence came that enormous will to resist? Here was a nation with no great army, no great navy, not much land, no significant natural resources. Nevertheless, its people possessed the will to resist Rome's might and Rome's tortures. Whence came such power to resist?

Beyond doubt, it came from the Jewish concept of God of love and mercy, a Power outside of and beyond man whose revelation to man made for righteous living, for love and charity and devotion to a moral life.

The adoration of God runs throughout this picture as a glorious theme if only one has eyes to see the symbolism and joy in his heart to understand that this more than a motion picture. It is a dramatized preaching of all that the Bible means, done with unerring tastefulness and even religious ardor.

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

Orchids and Cranberries

The season's most memorable drama, thus far, is "The Miracle Worker." The story of youthful Helen Keller and her teacher is full of high inspiration and a deep poignancy. As darkness intensifies the light of stars, compassion ignites ordinary mortals in time of crisis. Here are two people in the shadows discovering sunshine within each other. William Gibson, the playwright, has beautifully captured the courage and hope of human beings. And their quiet desperation in the quest to make the impossible a possibility. Profound thought and emotions are expressed with flashes of fiery dialogue. Moreover, the drama is a monumental acting experience. Ten-year-old Patty Duke is unforgettable as the youngster lost in the dark until her teacher builds a bridge to the light. As the teacher, Anne Bancroft demonstrates that stardust is more magical than Aladdin's Lamp.

"The Highest Tree" was a disappointment. A drama inspired by sensitivity and thought, it never really ignited dramatic fire. It aimed at the stars and got lost in the clouds. It closed after a dozen performances.

The best of the new film imports is "The Cousins," a French. A vivid tale detailing the corruption of the innocent, it offers a sharp reminder that all of us live secret lives. A life that is outwardly calm—like the outside of a volcano—and the whirling tensions hidden beneath, bubbling and exploding. This film explores the underground emotions. It depicts people who are shattered by loneliness, bitterness and terror. The pathos and high tragedy are deftly coordinated. Juliette Maynard is a cinch to become the most discussed foreign sexstress this side of Miss Bardot. The film has a taut, impressive quality and realistic impact, especially in the climatic episodes. This is a Song of Life—superbly orchestrated.

The dullest of the foreign imports is "Ivan the Terrible" (Part II). It is a product of the Soviet film factories. The terrible in the title is most accurate. It mistakes monotony for artistry and demonstrates the Reds are better with rockets than cameras.

My favorite among the current season's musicals is "Take Me Along." It is a happy melodic recapture of Eugene O'Neill's valentine to his youth. "Ah, Wilderness!" The show retains much of the original's affectionate charm and humor. It is full of rhythm and razzmatazz. The exuberant score enlivens the theater with rousing vibrations. Everyone is in step with the merry parade. Walter Pidgeon, Eileen Herlie and Robert Morse are simply immense. They never fail to keep the show jolly, glorious and jubilant. And Jackie Gleason, the One and Only, practically endowments the entire realm of entertainment. Singing, fooling and soft-shoeing—he is a star. It is hardly an exaggeration to note that in this show Gleason is as good as he thinks he is. Which is the greatest.

The greatest waste of talent in the song-and-dance dept was "The Girls Against the Boys." Bert Lahr and Nancy Walker, who belong among the royalty-joyalty of Crownville, ruled a realm barren of worthwhile material. The show was a quick humpty-dumpty.

"Ben-Hur" is an extraordinary film. In the world of marshallow girls, Technicolor confessions and popcorn empires, the spectacle has become a staple. The flicker has the primary qualities of superior spectacles—splendor, grandeur and an immense splash of color. Most important—the movie is distinguished by its ability to dramatize human beings effectively. It manages to make individuals as important as scenic backgrounds.

Courage is a lonely attribute and men of vision are usually honored by historians rather than their contemporaries. Nevertheless, those who enlist in the fight for justice know that no one ever gained a victory by refusing to fight. This is a dramatic story of such a soldier. The film not only dramatizes the fiery spirits of the adversaries in the conflict, but gives eloquent testimony to the Spirit of Man. And the thundering chariot race is an explosive climax you'll remember.

One of the duller new flickers is "Four Fast Guns." You've slept through this plot before. A combination of bang-bang and blah-blah.

Mr. Hopson, you needn't congratulate me after EVERY game!

Have A Heart, Folks

Dear Abby: I was sitting on my porch when I saw our paper-boy go from door to door, trying to collect. Out of five people who answered their doors, he made only one collection.

I called him over and he told me that almost half the people say, "Come back later, Sonny. I don't have the change right now."

I was a newspaper carrier myself many years ago and I know what it is to trudge on foot in all kinds of weather so that people can get their newspapers without fail. Why can't folks be a little more considerate and have the money ready so those poor kids don't have to make two or three trips? Some people even move away, leaving no forwarding address, in which case the paper-boy must pay what is owed out of his own pocket. Be a sport, Abby, and print this. Some folks need to be reminded.

"EX-NEWSBOY"

Dear "Ex": With pleasure. For whom the shoe pinches: Have the change ready for a change and make your carrier merrier.

Dear Abby: I am a young widow who is going to be married this Winter. Naturally, I have laid my wedding band away, but do you think I should wear the diamond I received from my deceased husband? I did not get one from my fiancé as I already own a very nice one. Thank you.

IRENE

Dear Irene: Wear your diamond on your right hand.

Dear Abby: Our 14-year-old son just got the filthiest pictures and a booklet of the rottenest jokes I have ever seen. They were sent to him from Chicago, Illinois, and there was no return address on the envelope. He showed them to his father and swore that he did not send for this stuff and has no idea who sent it. What is to be done about this deplorable situation? We don't want any unfavorable publicity in town.

MRS. D. W. L.

Dear Mrs. L.: Send the material, including the envelope in which it was mailed, to your local postmaster. It is the only way to halt this menace which is on the increase in our country today. Don't worry about "unfavorable publicity". It is common knowledge that this garbage is sent to most people unsolicited.

Confidential To Five Foot Two: If you weigh 188 you not only have a "weight" problem but where men are concerned you've got a wait problem.

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to Abby, care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Allen-Scott Report

Contracts Junked

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — More than $3.5 billion has virtually gone down the drain on contracts for new-type missiles, planes and other weapons that the Army Navy and Air Force have canceled in the past several years.

Hundreds of millions more have been similarly "squandered" on other junked defense projects, chief among them unfinished or unused airbases and ordnance plants.

Since September 1957, according to Mahon's revealing

Those are the jolting findings of a report in the hands of Rep. George Mahon (D., Tex.), chairman of the House Military Appropriations Subcommittee. He directed his staff to obtain this detailed information from official sources in preparation for closely questioning Pentagon authorities on how their $40 billion-plus budgets are compile and spent.

These hearings in January will be in connection with President Eisenhower's new budget. It is Mahon's strong conviction that large savings are possible in the huge military expenditures through more efficient and far-sighted administration.

Saved From Tuberculosis

Dear Resident of Monroe County:

If you suddenly found yourself struggling in deep water with little means of saving yourself, and a rescuer miraculously appeared, how would you feel toward that rescuer?

No need to ask young Bradley Shoemith how he feels toward his rescuer, whether he be a Cub Scout or passer-by. No matter his status in the world, he always would be indebted in your memory. As the years pass, he would mean more and more for the part he took in making your years possible.

More than 12 years ago my husband found himself struggling—"not in water—but with a germ identified specifically as "tubercule bacillus".

This germ has no conscience. It does not consider your plans for the future. It ignores the fact that you have a new baby. It disregards your education, your age, your sex, your color. It disregards your heartbeat.

One of the rescuers who assisted my husband in his bout with tuberculosis was the Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society.

Through them the best x-rays were afforded for the use of specialists; through them, periodically x-rays and sputum examinations are continued indefinitely as insurance against any recurrence of this illness.

Many, many unfortunate persons have received these same life-lines right here in Monroe County. And each of us is deeply grateful to you who made it possible.

Once a year, in November, each resident of this area receives in the mail a letter from our local Tuberculosis Society containing Christmas Seals. Read this letter. Believe the sincerity and necessity of its appeal for your help.

Your help, once a year, makes it possible year around for the Tuberculosis Society to safeguard you and your families through state-approved methods of tuberculosis detection—all of its services free of charge. Avail yourselves of these vital safeguards. Know that you are in good health.

And, continue rescuing. A close-up will show that it is just as wonderful to rescue as it is to be rescued.

Just Between Us

—by Bobby Westbrook

The only new word in my medical vocabulary is "polyunsaturated" and it's too bad it doesn't mean "full of beans," or I could use it to describe the doctors and their wives on their night out on Saturday night.

They were enjoying themselves and paying no attention at all to the diets they give some of their patients. They looked pretty handsome, too, and the women could have modeled their dresses in the New York fashion showing all satins and laces and things.

Since the Caulfields' two sons were to be guests, other families also invited their older children and for the first time had a chance to inspect each other's offspring. Though with all the new young doctors in town it was a little hard at times to decide which was which.

And on the dance floor, it wasn't always the youngsters who were tripping the light fantastic. It was in fact, a most delightful party, particularly since it was in honor of Helen Caulfield who richly deserves all the tributes paid to her.

Saturday was a big day for parties, anyway, with quite a few Army-Navy game gatherings in TV-lighted living rooms, which were a whole lot more comfortable than an open air stadium — and just about as noisy with all the partisan rooters cheering on their team.

The only difference is that it's a lot easier to clear out a stadium after the game than a living room, and some of the guests stayed for twelve straight hours.

Sunday was also a busy day, packing the deer-hunters off to camp, the college students back to school, and taking a big deep breath before the hectic week to come. The roads were even busier than usual with holiday guests going home and deer hunters coming in, and the stop lights all blending with the holiday decorations.

Santa tugged at his shiny, black boot, and sank back contentedly as it suddenly gave way and fell to the floor. He wiggled his toes, one of which peeked out a bit from a tiny hole in his red sock, and drew deeply upon his pipe. The scent of tobacco was fragrant and sweet. "I won't say I'm getting OLD," he announced heartily, "but I have to admit I'm not getting any younger." He puffed a pretty smoke ring, as gay as a holly wreath.

Try Ford Tractor For Best Results

NOW on display at Raymond Price Inc. in Cresco are the new Ford Tractors.

Two great advantages for tractor operators are to be found in Ford's new Select-O-Speed transmission.

First is convenience... a flick of the small selector lever shown in the inset and the operator can shift to or through any of ten forward speeds and two reverse speeds without stopping and without using the clutch pedal. This means no loss in traction... consider this advantage when plowing snow or pulling a load through snow.

Second advantage is in greater efficiency and economy resulting from easy selection of just the right gear to do the job. Ford offers a tractor of just the right capacity for your job and a line of implements and equipment specifically built to team up with the tractor. See the line at Raymond Price Inc. in Cresco.

Plans Changed For Ike's Tour

TOULON, France (AP) — Local officials say President Eisenhower will cross Toulon by car instead of train when he visits here Dec. 18.

He had been scheduled to board a special Paris-bound train at the naval yard after landing here from the U. S. cruiser Des Moines. But the officials said they requested and got the change because an auto ride will give the people a better chance to pay their respects.

Children Of The Bible

Mephibosheth

David Restored Property To Obscure Semi-Invalid

"And Jonathan, Saul's son, had a son that was lame of his feet. And his name was Mephibosheth." —II Samuel 14:1

By Patrick and Garrison

THE ACCIDENT that left Mephibosheth lame the rest of his life happened when he was only five years old.

When the news came that his father had been killed in battle and that the enemy was not far off, the boy's nurse took him into her arms to flee.

And it came to pass, as she made haste to flee, that he fell, and became lame."

Weeping and in pain, the young son of noble Jonathan disappears from our view. His father is dead, he faces a future filled with fear and uncertainty.

It is no wonder that when we next hear of him, Mephibosheth has become a semi-invalid, —timid, self-conscious, smothered with a feeling of unimportance.

Then one day David, who had been his father's closest friend and who was then in possession of Saul's kingdom, asked Saul's old servant, Ziba:

"Is there yet any that is left of the house of Saul, that I may show him kindness for Jonathan's sake?"

Ziba told David then about the crippled boy Mephibosheth. He was living in obscurity with a man named Machir, the son of Ammiel. David sent for Mephibosheth at once.

But when the lame youth came before David, he bowed and said:

"What is thy servant, that thou shouldst look upon such a dead dog as I am?"

No doubt it hurt David deeply to see the lame son of the man who had befriended him all his life, standing there an unimpaired creature of neglect and indifference.

So David restored to Mephibosheth all the property that had belonged to his family, and had him remain as a guest in the royal household all the rest of his life.

CHALLENGE!

Can we meet the new competition?

"In the forty years that have elapsed since its Revolution, Russia has devoted a far larger portion of its gross national product to education than have we. As a result of this intense commitment to education on the part of the Soviets, we as a nation are presented for the first time with a challenge to our leadership in all of the values that we cherish.

"If we rightly interpret the significance of this event, our first reaction of dismay and consternation will herald a rededication of ourselves to the best that we have learned from our first century of educational effort. We have a longer and a stronger tradition, greater resources in depth and diversity, a freedom of enterprise, and a talent for innovation which can all combine to more than redress the present balance and carry us to new heights of educational accomplishment if we display the requisite wisdom and determination."

GAYLORD P. HARNWELL
President, University of Pennsylvania

WE CAN AND MUST MATCH THEIR ZEAL—because our strength as a nation will depend on how we treasure and build our educational assets. Yet the hard facts are these:

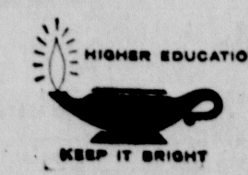

1. Low salaries are not only driving gifted college teachers into other fields but are steadily reducing the number of qualified people who choose college teaching as a career.

2. Many college classrooms are already overcrowded yet in less than ten years entrance applications will double in number.

You can help in this crisis, one of the gravest in our history. Support the college or university of your choice—now!

OFF THE RECORD

By Bob Clark
Sports Editor

MUNICIPAL STADIUM, PHILADELPHIA — The drawing of southern gentleman who had been a cadet at West Point many years ago turned to us and remarked, "This is a sad, sad situation."

He was referring, of course, to Navy's 43-12 lead over Army in the fourth quarter of the annual battle of the service academies.

"This is without a doubt the worst Army eleven I've seen in years," he continued.

"Can you imagine, sir," he brought out in his best Dixie manner, "an army team so disorganized that they didn't know who was to take in a kickoff?"

The man from the deep south was attempting to point out a particular play when the Kaydets three safeties let a Middle Dixie kickoff bounce between them before one finally became alert enough to hop on the ball after the entire Navy eleven had come downfield and nearly recovered the pigskin themselves.

The voice of the ex-Army officer was practically the same feeling which prevailed in the stands throughout the 60-minute contest.

Army fans just couldn't fathom being sunk in such unparallel fashion. They were ready to take a one or two touchdown loss but were not set for a resounding beating that started from the opening kickoff to the bitter end.

Probably a good indication of what the Army corps expected before the game ever got under way came from four Cadets who were traveling uptown to mid-Philadelphia for a few-hour fling before returning to their above-the-Hudson-River retreat.

One westerner, apparently disheartened by the whole turn of events, called across the aisle to his upper classmen friend and asked, "Joe what did you think of it?"

Joe, a bespectacled lad who also was taking the defeat seriously calmly said, "If they didn't care why should we?"

Joe, a Californian, pin-pointed his "they" feeling with "Davidson doesn't seem to care if we have a winning team and the way the spirit at West Point was this week, we'd be lucky to beat a prep school team."

The Davidson Joe was referring to was Gen. Gar, superintendent of the United States Military Academy, and a former head football coach at the West Point school.

A bitter old-timer who had seen many of the Army teams come and go chimed into the conversation with helpful words to Joe, "This team today was reminiscent of the same teams that were in order when Davidson coached at the point. There was always something lacking."

What the southerner, Cadet Joe and his buddies and the old-timer forgot to mention was that a pretty good Navy eleven turned around Army Saturday.

Navy's line simply outgated the Cadets the entire game. And in back of this highly spirited forward wall were a host of glittering backs led by a snake-dancing runner by the name of Joe Bellino and a dart-throwing quarterback who goes under the moniker of Joe Tranchini.

Bellino and Tranchini were brilliant on offense and the extra-effort they got from the rest of the Middies made their victory look a lot more easier than even the score indicated.

Maybe the spirit the corps wasn't busting from Army's team and it could be that this was the reason the Cadets appeared to take everything for granted prior and during the first half of the tilt which saw Navy ahead, 21-12 at the intermission.

But you can't take anything away from the Middies. They went out all out from the opening play from scrimmage when a long pass was caught, bobbled and finally dropped by a halfback Len Blaudiquist who was in the clear on the Army's 15.

This play alone served notice that the Midshipmen were going to put the Army on rough seas this particular afternoon.

What the Army faithful thought and spoke freely—lack of this and none of that—meant little. Navy belted Army and left no turn stone unturned to make it convincing. So much in fact that the gentlemen feeling installed daily at the Point couldn't even take the bitter with the sweet.

Could you blame them. After-all there wasn't any "sugar" to nurse on at any time during the 60 minutes of the one-sided fray.

One Bowl Vacancy Remains

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

College football's major bowls, well surrounded by teams from the powerful Southeastern and Southwest conferences, have only one vacancy and that one is Navy's for the accepting.

The Middies, after clinching a 43-12 victory over Army Saturday, are expected to learn in a day or two—perhaps Monday—whether they will play Penn State Dec. 19 in the new Liberty Bowl at 100,000-seat Philadelphia Stadium, the setting for their romp over woeful Army.

If Navy (5-4-1) says no, it could be Alabama (7-1-2). If 'Bama isn't interested, it could be Pitt (6-4) which handed Penn State one of its two losses during regular season play.

All the other big bowl spots are filled.

The lineup:

Bluebonnet in Houston — Texas Christian SWC vs. Clemson (Atlantic Coast Conference).

Liberty in Philadelphia — Penn State vs. team to be selected. (Navy invited).

Jan. 1

Rose in Pasadena — Washington (Far West Five) vs. Wisconsin (Big Ten).

Cotton in Dallas — Syracuse vs. Texas (SWC).

Sugar in New Orleans — LSU (SEC) vs. Mississippi (SEC).

Orange in Miami — Missouri (Big Eight) vs. Georgia (SEC).

Jan. 2

Gator in Jacksonville, Fla. — Arkansas (SWC) vs. Georgia Tech (SEC).

That's impressive enough with four SEC teams and all three co-champs of the Southwest loop. And the SEC's total could go up to six if Alabama finds a spot and Kentucky accepts an offer to play in the Blue Grass, tentatively set for Dec. 12 in Louisville. 'Bama rejected the Blue Grass.

Mississippi, Georgia, Georgia Tech and Clemson nailed berths after the last big Saturday program of the regular season. Only a few games remain, headed by the important one in Los Angeles next Saturday between top-ranking Syracuse, the only major unbeaten team, and UCLA, now 5-3-1 after a 21-6 warm-up victory over Utah.

Mississippi took a Sugar Bowl rematch with LSU, its only conqueror, after routing Mississippi State 42-0 as Jake Gibbs scored two touchdowns and passed for two more.

Georgia, triggered again by Francis Tarkenton's passing, whipped Georgia Tech 21-14. Both wound up in bowls — Georgia against Missouri in the Orange and Tech against Arkansas in the Gator.

Clemson got its Bluebonnet spot after mauling Furman 56-3. TCU closed out an 8-2 season and gained a Southwest Conference triple tie with Arkansas and Cotton Bowl-bound Texas by clobbering Southern Methodist 19-0 as Marvin Lasater scored twice and the defense stopped SMU passer Don Meredith.

Navy did quite a job on another passer — Army's Joe Caldwell — while its own attack, led by Joe Tranchini and Joe Bellino, toyed with the Army defenses. Bellino matched an Army-Navy record with three touchdowns on runs of 1, 15 and 47 yards.

Again it was a day of outstanding individual performances:

Norm Sneed threw three touchdowns and wound up with season Atlantic Coast Conference records for TD passes (12), passing yardage (1,361), completed passes (832) and total yardage (1,365) as Wake Forest drubbed South Carolina 43-20.

Vanderbilt's Tom Moore scored one touchdown, set up another in a 14-0 victory over Tennessee; Notre Dame whipped Southern California 16-6 as soph fullback Gerry Gray scored twice and added a safety; Larry Corley kicked an 18-yard field goal in the closing minutes for Baylor's 23-21 victory over Rice; Florida's Dick Allen scored once, threw two touchdowns and kicked a field goal to beat Miami 23-14; Vin Hogan scored both Boston College touchdowns in a 14-0 triumph over Holy Cross; and Colorado's Gale Weidner passed for both scores to beat Air Force 15-7.

Tommy Brooker kicked a 27-yard field goal and Marlin Dyess took a 39-yard scoring pass from Bobby Skelton in Alabama's 10-0 victory over Auburn. Oklahoma beat Oklahoma State 17-0 on two fourth-quarter touchdowns. Florida State whipped Tampa 33-0 on Joe Major's passing, and Charley Johnson threw three TD passes and Pervis Atkins ran for three in New Mexico State's 35-0 rout of Mexico.

AP Says Penn Will Fire Sebo

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Penn football Coach Steve Sebo is being dropped despite winning the 1959 Ivy League title and compiling the best university football record in 12 years, The Associated Press learned Sunday.

A reliable source told the AP John Stieglman, head coach at Rutgers University, already has been selected as Sebo's successor. A recommendation to drop Sebo and hire Stieglman has been made to Dr. Gaylord P. Harwell, Penn president.

The recommendation, by the faculty administrative committee, is expected to be acted upon Dec. 3. The committee is composed of Gene Gisborne, vice president of student affairs; Athletic Director Jerry Ford, and two members of the faculty senate.

Dr. Harwell said he hadn't received the report yet and knew nothing of the matter. He said he normally follows the advice of his committee.

Ford declined comment. The committee of which he is a member is the same one that recommended rehiring Sebo after his first contract expired.

Stieglman denies the report and Sebo says he hasn't been advised such a move is being made.

However, a source close to Stieglman confirmed that the 35-year-old former Williams College athlete and ex-assistant Princeton football coach, has accepted the Penn job. The source blamed Rutgers' final game upset by Columbia on the fact the squad learned their coach was leaving. He said the bottom collapsed on the Rutgers team.

Several coaches, who naturally desire to remain anonymous, have admitted being interviewed in recent months for the Penn job. Actually, the decision to oust Sebo was made last winter and the faculty committee has been screening candidates for the job ever since.

Sebo, who has said he won't resign under pressure because it would be the same as being fired, apparently is hoping Penn's 7-1-1 record and Ivy title will save his job. Dr. Harwell three years ago re-signed Sebo to a three-year contract despite strong alumni pressure against the coach.

Odds Against Him

Sebo came to Penn from Michigan State in 1954 where he was backfield coach. Succeeding George Munger, who resigned after 15 years as head coach, Sebo took over a de-emphasized team with an overemphasized schedule.

In his first two years Penn failed to win a game. Sebo's overall record at Penn is 18-35-1. Such teams as Notre Dame, Army, Navy, Duke, California, and Ohio State were too much for Penn in those early Sebo days. And it was too much for Penn alumni used to a national power.

Several times during his six years here, Sebo was hung in effigy. A few seasons ago a poll conducted among his players recommended the coach be fired. However, on Thanksgiving Day his 1959 team carried him off the field after beating Cornell, and Capt. Barney Barlinger said the coach deserved the Ivy title "as much as anybody could."

Stieglman, a native of Buffalo, was a standout tackle at Williams under coach Charley Caldwell. When Caldwell went to Princeton he took Stieglman along as line coach. Stieglman remained at Princeton from 1946, until he left to become head coach at Rutgers in 1956.

Under Stieglman, described by the late Caldwell as a remarkable defensive strategist, Rutgers has won 22, and lost 15.

Layne Spoils Eagles In 31-0 Victory

By JOE BRADIS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bobby Layne, the National Football League's leading spoiler, played it to the hilt Sunday in leading the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 31-0 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

Layne kicked a 17-yard field goal in the first quarter, and hit with four touchdown passes in the second, third and fourth periods to Buddy Dial, Jimmy Orr, Tom Tracy and Gern Nagler. Layne also kicked four extra points.

Layne first hit Dial with a 12-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter, the connection with Orr in the third on a 19-yard scoring pass and Tracy for a 23-yard touchdown pass in the fourth.

Layne clinched the scoring with only 23 seconds left in the game on a two-yard toss to Nagler after the Steelers intercepted an Eagle pass deep in Eagle territory.

3rd Straight

It was the third straight week the Steelers, led by Layne and Company, turned back a leading contender in the Eastern Division. Two weeks ago the Steelers tripped New York 14-9 and a week ago they edged Cleveland 21-20.

The Steelers defensive line killed off two Eagles' scoring thrusts in the first half Sunday by blocking two field goal attempts by Paige Cothren from the 22-yard line in the first period and from the 13 in the second. George Tarnasovic blocked the first and John Reger the second.

Philadelphia 0 0 0 0 — Pittsburgh 3 7 7 14—31 (17).

Pittsburgh: TD Dial (12 pass from Layne); Orr (19 pass from Layne); Tracy (23 pass from Layne); Nagler (2 pass from Layne); PAT: Layne 4, FG: Layne 1.

Giants' Conerly Observes 'Day'

NEW YORK (AP) — Charlie Conerly had his day in Yankee Stadium Sunday and responded by leading the New York Giants in a first-half surge that carried them to an easy 45-14 victory over the Washington Redskins. The victory clinched at least a tie for first place in the National Football League's Eastern Division.

The Giant victory, coupled with defeats for the Cleveland Browns and Philadelphia Eagles clubs can beat out New York without a playoff. Each has lost four games while the Giants have an 8-2 record with two games to play.

With Conerly directing their offense on all but one play in the first half, the Giants surged into a 38-0 lead at the intermission. Then the graying veteran quarterback and his running mate Alex Webster were benched and the Redskins tallied two touchdowns to New York's one in the second half.

825,000 In Gifts

Conerly received the tribute of a crowd of 60,982 and gifts worth about $25,000, including two automobiles, before the game. Then he took over on the field and threw passes for three of the five Giant touchdowns in the first half. Two went to Bob Schneiker and one to Kyle Rote.

Webster made the first Giant score on a 10-yard run and tallied again in the second half. Frank Gifford tossed a 34-yard pass to Phil King for a touchdown and Pat Summerall booted a 31-yard field goal in addition to converting after every touchdown.

Washington 0 0 7 7—14 New York 14 24 0 7—45

Washington: TD, Podley (9 pass from LeBaron), Anderson (14 pass from LeBaron), PAT, Baker 2.

New York: TD, Webster 2 (10 run, 1 plunge), Rote (2 pass from Conerly), Schneiker 2 (7 pass from Conerly, 34 pass from Conerly), King (24 pass from Gifford), PAT, Summerall 6, FG, Summerall (31).

49ers Binge In 2nd Canto Trips Browns

By FRITZ HOWELL

CLEVELAND (AP)—San Francisco rode a six-minute scoring spree to a 21-0 victory over the Cleveland Browns Sunday to remain tied for the Western Conference lead in the National Football League.

The defeat — second straight by a 21-0 score — practically wrecked the Browns' chances. They dropped two games back of New York in the Eastern Conference with only two to play.

6-Minute Space

Playing without ace quarterback Y. A. Tittle, the 49ers scored three touchdowns in six minutes and 18 seconds of the second period for their entire outplay.

They converted a Browns' fumble and a pass interception into touchdowns along with a 55-yard assault in which substitute John Brodie completed three passes for 63 yards to more than make up penalty and running losses.

Brodie passed to Billy Wilson and J. D. Smith for 21-yard touchdowns, and then Hugh McElhenny skirted end for 12 for the third. Smith's TD came on the second play after Cleveland quarterback Milt Plum fumbled on his own 21 and Leo Nomellini recovered. McElhenny's score climaxed a 31-yard seven-play surge after Jerry Tubbs intercepted a pass by Plum.

Sub-freezing temperatures and a snowstorm hampered passing attacks. Brodie completed 10 of 22 for 141 yards, while Plum gained 96 yards in 11 of 26.

San Francisco 0 21 0 0—21 Cleveland 7 3 3 7—20

San Francisco: TD, Wilson (21 pass from Brodie), Smith (21 pass from Brodie), McElhenny (12 run), PAT, Davis 3.

You're only young once.

Q. I am 13 years old and have $500. How can I invest this money other than in a savings account?

A. Oh boy! The last time a query such as this was answered here in detail, it ended up as the subject of ribbing in one of those so-called "sophisticated" magazines. However, 13-year-olds and other would-be investors are seldom sophisticated. So, it's worth going over again.

Legally, you can't invest on your own hook — until you are 21. But there are ways around this.

If there was a large amount of money involved, a trust agreement might be drawn up through a lawyer. However, because you have only $500, it would hardly be worth the effort and expense.

You might turn the money over to your father or mother. He or she could buy securities as a "gift" for you and act as custodian of the securities.

For all practical purposes, though, here's what many boys and girls do. They turn their money over to their parents. The parents buy the stock in their own (the parents') name. The parents either sell the stock when the children need the money or turn the stock over to the children when the kids become 21.

This method may not follow the letter of the law, but it's done all the time.

Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.

Mutual Funds

Trusts Are Becoming More Popular

By William A. Doyle
A SIMPLIFIED method of combining an investment in mutual fund shares with a trust agreement was unveiled yesterday by Fidelity Mutual Investment Co. The management of that mutual fund has worked out a system aimed at encouraging buyers of the fund's shares to place the shares in a revocable trust.

Actually, placing mutual fund shares in trust is far from a new idea. Trust arrangements have many advantages (especially from the tax angle) and are becoming increasingly popular.

Shares of all mutual funds can be placed in trust — for estate planning and other purposes. And shares of at least one fund (Massachusetts Life Fund) are sold only under separate trust instruments.

The new arrangement with Fidelity Mutual shares, however, does not restrict the potential investor in any way. He can make lump sum purchases of shares, as he can in any other fund. Or he can acquire the shares through an accumulation plan.

Level Load
The accumulation plan is the "level load" type. The commission or "load" is equal on every purchase. But the person who acquires shares through the plan may sign up for life insurance to insure the completion of his plan. The insurance feature is usually found only in the "front-end load" contractual accumulation plans.

With either method of buying Fidelity Mutual shares, the investor may elect to use the trust service.

The details of the relatively simple trust service are spelled out in the Fidelity Mutual prospectus. Morton M. Banks, vice president of the fund and president of Mercer Management Corp., distributor of the fund's shares, explains that the trust service is possible because Fidelity Trust Co. of New York acts as the fund's investment manager.

This tie-up with the trust company "provides a practical way of accomplishing various financial objectives through trust arrangements," he pointed out, adding that it is done "at a minimum expense" because it is not necessary to "superimpose the usual trustee's fee."

Effective Planning
He has high hopes for the whole idea because "more and more investors are coming to realize the importance of the trust as a vehicle for effective financial planning."

But he adds that "even though we have made it as inexpensive and as easy as possible to use the trust vehicle in order to accomplish many planning objectives, the provisions as to beneficiaries and payments must be tailored to the investor's needs and wishes."

Expanding on this, he emphasizes that "any investor who plans to set up a trust should discuss it with his lawyer before signing the instrument. There are questions about local laws, gift taxes and many other things which can result in unforeseen consequences unless a qualified attorney is consulted."

So, even while providing a simplified trust agreement, the fund warns investors against trying to by-pass lawyers to save a small amount of money. There's not much doubt that individual legal attention will always be helpful, when it comes to signi gna trust agreement.

Housewives Not Reporting Social Security Earnings

THE EASTON social security office reported yesterday that many housewives in this area are not reporting household help for social security purposes.

"As little as $4 per week in cash earnings totals more than $50 a quarter and should be reported to the director of internal revenue," Manager Harry R. Peterman said.

Peterman explained reporting is easier than many housewives think. Upon request, Internal Revenue Service mails a report form each calendar quarter as a reminder. The report has the form of an envelope.

Instructions
The housewife enters the worker's name, social security number and total cash earnings. She puts a check or money order in the pocket to cover the social security tax and mails the sealed envelope to the address already printed on it. The tax rate for 1959 is 24 percent for employee and 24 percent for employer. This rate will increase to 3 percent on Jan. 1, 1960.

No detailed bookkeeping is required. The fact that a household worker is also reported by another employer makes no difference in reporting responsibility.

Proper reporting establishes social security credit for retirement, survivors, and disability insurance benefits for the household worker and her dependents.

Peterman cautioned housewives that they are liable for payment of both parts of the tax, plus penalty, plus interest if their household help leaves their employment and timely reports were not made.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

For Monday, November 30, 1959
March 21 to April 20 (Aries)
Mixed influences now. It would be well to THINK before speaking and acting so that errors may be avoided and the best course pursued. Be reasonable.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)
While your planetary influences are not wholly restrictive, it would nevertheless be sensible to review your schedule carefully so that you may proceed wisely and with fewer delays.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Be careful in making promises; don't undertake what you cannot fulfill or manage. Some days are best for checking for errors, for improving methods, conferring and studying rather than for obtaining quick results. This is one of them.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—A fine Moon aspect encourages initiative, new ideas, inventiveness. Try to give a new twist to old routines, and you should fare well.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Practical, useful and essential matters can be handled with good results. Remember that it is largely up to you personally whether your efforts are productive.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Don't worry or fret if you cannot produce as quickly as usual. Calm thinking and planning now will give you what you seek later.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—There are tendencies now to overdo, to go to extremes in pleasant ways, as well as other matters. DON'T let just days have their compensations, too.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—(Good Influences) Whenever you add delivery of touch and finesse to your undertakings, you increase their potentialities for success. Remember this now.

November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Organization, investigation, conferring, studying, CAREFUL planning are essential now. Success is vital to success now. Give the effort and thoroughness before acting, or else follow an equal chance, too.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Few mistakes for today. Coordination of talents, the ability to distinguish between craftiness and real cleverness in dealing with competition, and cooperation with co-workers.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—Start at the beginning and review to ascertain wherein you may have made errors in your thinking. If you then feel you are on the right track, proceed with vim and assurance.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—Pisces is essential now. Submerge in fancies, get the FACTS. Once sure you're on the right track, proceed with confidence.

YOU BORN TODAY are bright and energetic; may be dictatorial at times but are honest, straightforward. Correct a tendency to belittle your own or others' judgment, suggestions. Helpful hints can come your way when you listen well. You possess the qualities of leadership, the ability to make outstanding actors, surgeons, business executives. Fine weeks ahead for worthwhile endeavors.

Birthdays: Sir Winston Churchill, Eric Starvo Galt; Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain), American Author, humorist; Jonathan Swift, Irish satirist.

DOUBLED-UP OVER CLOWNING—Otto Greibling, a clown for 46 years, shows Dan Vander-slice, 8, that a lot is in the makeup as the youngster visits Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus in Dallas, Tex. "How did you get a face like that?" Dan appears to be asking and then with a putty nose and a few smears the transformation begins. At right, Dan is set for some clowning.

Mrs. Gabert Succumbs To Ax Wounds

EASTON, Pa. (AP)—The mother of two children killed by their ax-wielding grandfather died Saturday in a hospital as a result of the attack.

The death of Mrs. Lillian Gabert, 30, left two other members of the family still hospitalized from the attack last Monday by her father, Elirio Mantoni, 60.

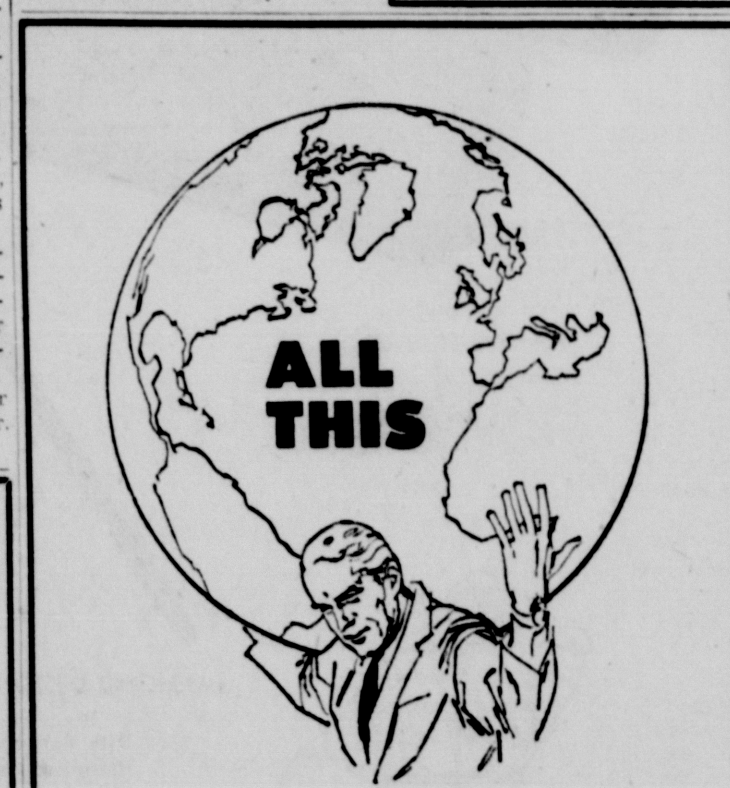

They are Mrs. Gabert's son, Paul, one, who is in serious condition, and Mantoni's wife—Mrs. Gabert's mother—Anna Mantoni.

Worried By Strike
Mantoni, in financial difficulty because of a long strike at the plant where he worked, feared he would lose his grandchildren. Mrs. Gabert had made inquiries with a family service agency.

He visited his wife in a hospital, where she had been confined by a gall bladder ailment, and attacked her. Then he committed suicide by jumping from the roof of a 60-foot building.

Police went to inform Mrs. Gabert and found her and her three children also had been attacked in their house. Elaine, 3, died a short time later. Raymond, 4, died Tuesday.
